CEDAR FALLS PUBLIC LIBRARY
3D Scanner/Printer Policy

The Cedar Falls Public Library provides a 3D scanner/printer for use in the library, available only when directly supervised by a library staff member. Software provided by the library is available for design use, and may be changed without advance notice. Other software products cannot be used. Patrons must have a library card in good standing in order to use the scanner/printer. Files in stereolithography (i.e., *.stl) format may be submitted by referring to the library’s website for instructions. Staff members will then determine the feasibility of a print job.

Printing of materials under current copyright is illegal. Please see the librarians for suggested sites with projects which are in the public domain.

Cost for printing is .20 per meter of filament. Only filament supplied by the library can be used, and availability of colors may vary. The cost for printing will be added to the patron’s library account, and collected in the Circulation Department before removing the item from the library. Printing appointments may be requested and reserved by filling out the form on the library’s website. Print jobs may not be available the same day. Print job failures not due to library or equipment malfunction are the responsibility of the patron.

The library is not responsible for delays in printing or for damage to objects brought in for scanning.

Art Collection Policy

Works of art may be either purchased by or donated to the Library. Final responsibility for acceptance of a work of art resides with the Board of Library Trustees. The Library particularly collects art created by local artists, but may collect works outside that scope. The intent of this collection is to enhance the library’s aesthetic environment.

Items given to the library will be presented to the Board of Trustees for final acceptance upon recommendation of the art committee. Items given to the library for Board consideration which have not yet been accepted are not covered by the City’s insurance policy, and must be covered by the donor’s personal insurance. If the Board decides not to accept an item, the owner will be notified as soon as possible and may reclaim the item within two weeks. After two weeks, the library has the right to dispose of the work in the best interest of the library.

Items that are accepted by the Board are considered unconditional and outright gifts. These are to be displayed, accessed, housed, loaned, retained, reproduced, sold, donated to a public organization, or disposed in the best interest of the Library. Donors will be asked to read and sign a copy of the library’s “Deed of Gift.” Gifts to the Library may be deductible from taxable income in accordance with the provisions of the federal income tax rules, and in compliance with this law the appraisal is the responsibility of the donor.

Art created by library employees and their families will not be accepted for display or for the permanent collection. However, the Board reserves the right to commission or request works of art by any artist.

Works of art on display in the library are not for sale.

The Board of Library Trustees will be responsible for any decisions regarding the removal of a work of art upon recommendation from the Art Committee. Any art withdrawn from the collection may be donated to an appropriate public organization or sold at public auction, or otherwise disposed of in the best interest of the Library. The proceeds from the sale of a work of art will go the Cedar Falls Public Library’s Investment Funds account and will be reserved to be used for future collection-related purposes such as to repair and / or conserve works in the collection, or acquire additional works for the collection, at the discretion of the Board of Library Trustees.

Collection Development Policy
(Materials Selection)

Purpose of policy: This policy sets broad guidelines for the selection of library materials that correspond to the library’s mission and identified roles. It may also be used to inform the public and staff about the principles upon which selections are made.

1. Definitions

A. Selection refers to the decision to add, retain, or withdraw materials in the library’s collection.
B. Library materials include all items in the library’s collection regardless of format.
C. Access is the availability of materials in a variety of formats for users of all ages and abilities.

2. Goal of Materials Selection

The goal of selection is to provide collections within the library’s legal service area that meet the informational, educational and recreational needs of the customers.

3. Responsibility for Selection

A. Selection of all materials shall be the responsibility of the Library Director who operates within the framework of policies determined by the Library Board of Trustees. A staff of librarians with professional education and training assists the Director in the principles and practices of materials selection.
B. Both the general public and staff members may recommend materials for consideration.

4. Criteria for Selection

A. The Library supports intellectual freedom and has adopted the following statements as policy: ALA Freedom to Read Statement*, and the ALA Library Bill of Rights*.
B. Each type of material must be considered in terms of its own merit and the audience for whom it is intended. No single standard can be applied in all cases. Some materials may be judged primarily in terms of artistic merit, scholarship, or value to humanity; others are selected to satisfy the informational, recreational, or educational interests of the community.
C. All librarians have a professional responsibility to be inclusive, not exclusive, in developing collections. Efforts will be made to provide materials representing all viewpoints.
D. Reviews in professionally recognized resources are a primary source for materials selection. Standard bibliographies, book lists by recognized authorities, and the advice of people competent in specific subject areas will also be used.

E. The library keeps its collections vital and useful by retaining or replacing essential materials and by removing on a systematic and continuous basis/schedule those works that are worn, outdated, of little historical significance, or no longer in demand.

5. Gifts

A. Gifts shall meet the same selection criteria as purchased materials. The library retains unconditional ownership of all donations and makes the final decision on acceptance, use, or disposition. The appraisal of the gift for tax purposes is the responsibility of the donor.

B. When the library receives a cash gift for the purchase of materials, whether as a memorial or for any other purpose, the general nature or subject area of the materials to be purchased will be based upon the wishes of the donor. In accordance with the needs and selection policies of the library, the library staff will make selection of specific titles.

C. Special collections and memorial collections will not be shelved as separate physical entities. Such collections will be accepted only with the understanding that they will be integrated into the general collection.

6. Concerns Regarding Material

A. The customer’s choice of library materials for personal use is an individual matter. Responsibility for the use of materials by children and adolescents rests with their parents or legal guardians. While a person may reject materials for himself or herself and for his or her children, he or she cannot exercise censorship to restrict access to the materials by others.

B. Any customer in the library’s service area who objects to the presence or absence of a work may do so by completing the Statement of Concern About Library Resources form included at the end of this policy. The professional staff and the Library Trustees will review challenges. The customer will be informed of the Trustee’s decision.
The confidentiality of library records is central to intellectual freedom and directly related to the ability of citizens to use library materials and pursue information without fear of intimidation.

Confidentiality extends to information sought or received and materials consulted, borrowed or otherwise acquired including:

- database search records
- Internet and electronic resources search records
- reference interview and transactions
- interlibrary loan records
- all other personally identifiable uses of library materials or information services.

Compliance with Iowa Open Records Law

All information stored in any medium belonging to a city is defined as a public record by Section 22.1(3) of the Code of Iowa, but Section 22.7(13) provides that certain "public records" are confidential, including: "The records of a library which, by themselves, or when examined with other public records, would reveal the identity of the library patron checking out or requesting an item or information from the library.," This same section specifically prohibits the release of such information except under court order.

Library's Responsibility

At no time will the Library Director, who serves as custodian of the records, release records of circulation transactions or information requests except under court order. Furthermore, the Library will resist issuance or enforcement of any such process, order, or subpoena until such time as a proper showing of good cause has been made in a court of competent jurisdiction.

Borrowers' Rights

The confidentiality of circulation transactions and information requests is both library policy and state law. This information may be released only to the person who has borrowed the items upon presentation of the library card or by phone if the patron provides the card number. Parents may be told how many books are checked out to their children and when they are due, but may not be told the titles of the items.

A statement prepared by the Westchester Conference of the American Library Association and the American Book Publishers Council May 2 and 3, 1953

The freedom to read is essential to our democracy. It is under attack. Private groups and public authorities in various parts of the country are working to remove books from sale, to censor textbooks, to label "controversial" books, to distribute lists of "objectionable" books or authors, and to purge libraries. These actions apparently rise from a view that our national tradition of free expression is no longer valid; that censorship and suppression are needed to avoid the subversion of politics and the corruption of morals. We, as citizens devoted to the use of books and as librarians and publishers responsible for disseminating them, wish to assert the public interest in the preservation of the freedom to read.

We are deeply concerned about these attempts at suppression. Most such attempts rest on a denial of the fundamental premise of democracy: that the ordinary citizen, by exercising his critical judgment, will accept the good and reject the bad. The censors, public and private, assume that they should determine what is good and what is bad for their fellow-citizens.

We trust Americans to recognize propaganda, and to reject obscenity. We do not believe they need the help of censors to assist them in this task. We do not believe they are prepared to sacrifice their heritage of a free press in order to be "protected" against what others think may be bad for them. We believe they still favor free enterprise in ideas and expression.

We are aware, of course, that books are not alone in being subjected to efforts at suppression. We are aware that these efforts are related to a larger pattern of pressures being brought against education, the press, films, radio and television. The problem is not only one of actual censorship. The shadow of fear cast by these pressures leads, we suspect, to an even larger voluntary curtailment of expression by those who seek to avoid controversy.

Such pressure toward conformity is perhaps natural to a time of uneasy change and pervading fear. Especially when so many of our apprehensions are directed against an ideology, the expression of a dissident idea becomes a thing feared in itself, and we tend to move against it as against a hostile deed, with suppression.

And yet suppression is never more dangerous than in such a time of social tension. Freedom has given the United States the elasticity to endure strain. Freedom keeps open the path of novel and creative solutions, and enables change to come by choice. Every silencing of a heresy, every enforcement of an orthodoxy, diminishes the toughness and resilience of our society and leaves it the less able to deal with stress.

Now as always in our history, books are among our greatest instruments of freedom. They are almost the only means for making generally available ideas or manners of expression that can initially command only a small audience. They are the natural medium for the new idea and the untried voice from which come the original contributions to social growth. They are essential to the extended discussion which serious thought requires, and to the accumulation of knowledge and ideas into organized collections.

We believe that free communication is essential to the preservation of a free society and a creative culture. We believe that these pressures towards conformity present the danger of limiting the range of variety of inquiry and expression on which our democracy and our culture depend. We believe that every American community must jealously guard the freedom of publish and circulate, in order to preserve its own freedom to read. We believe that publishers and librarians have a profound responsibility to give validity to that freedom to read by making it possible for the reader to choose freely from a variety of offerings.

The freedom to read is guaranteed by the Constitution. Those with faith in free men will stand firm on these constitutional guarantees of essential rights and will exercise the responsibilities that accompany these rights.

We therefore affirm these propositions:

1. It is in the public interest for publishers and librarians to make available the widest diversity of views and expressions, including those which are unorthodox or unpopular with the majority.

   Creative thought is by definition new, and what is new is different. The bearer of every new thought is a rebel until his idea is refined and tested. Totalitarian systems attempt to maintain themselves in power by the ruthless suppression of any concept which challenges the established orthodoxy. The power of a democratic system to adapt to change is vastly strengthened by the freedom of its citizens to choose widely from among conflicting opinions offered freely to them. To stifle every non-conformist idea at birth would mark the end of the democratic process. Furthermore, only through the constant activity of weighing and selecting can the democratic mind attain the strength demanded by times like these. We need to know not only what we believe but why we believe it.

2. Publishers and librarians do not need to endorse every idea or presentation contained in the books they make available. It would conflict with the public interest for them to establish their own political, moral or aesthetic views as the sole standard for determining what books should be published or circulated.

   Publishers and librarians serve the educational process by helping to make available knowledge and ideas required for the growth of the mind and the increase of learning. They do not foster education by imposing as mentors the patterns of their own thought. The people should have the freedom to read and consider a broader range of ideas than those that may be held by any single librarian or publisher or government or church. It is wrong that what one man can read should be convinced to what another thinks proper.
3. It is contrary to the public interest for publishers or librarians to determine the acceptability of a book solely on the basis of the personal history or political affiliations of the author.

A book should be judged as a book. No art or literature can flourish if it is to be measured by the political views or private lives of its creators. No society of free men can flourish which draws up lists of writers to whom it will not listen, whatever they may have to say.

4. The present laws dealing with obscenity should be vigorously enforced. Beyond that, there is no place in our society for extra-legal efforts to coerce the taste of others, to confine adults to the reading matter deemed suitable for adolescents, or to inhibit the efforts of writers to achieve artistic expression.

To some, much of modern literature is shocking. But is not much of life itself shocking? We cut off literature at the source if we prevent serious artists from dealing with the stuff of life. Parents and teachers have a responsibility to prepare the young to meet the diversity of experiences in life to which they will be exposed as they have a responsibility to help them learn to think critically for themselves. These are affirmative responsibilities not to be discharged simply by preventing them from reading works for which they are not yet prepared. In these matters taste differs, and taste cannot be legislated; nor can machinery be devised which will suit the demands of one group without limiting the freedom of others.

We deplore the catering to the immature, the retarded or the maladjusted taste. But those concerned with freedom have the responsibility of seeing to it that each individual book or publication, whatever its contents, price or method of distribution, is dealt with in accordance with due process of law.

5. It is not in the public interest to force a reader to accept with any book the prejudgment of a label characterizing the book or author as subversive or dangerous.

The idea of labeling presupposes the existence of individuals or groups with wisdom to determine by authority what is good or bad for the citizen. It presupposes that each individual must be directed in making up his mind about the ideas he examines. But Americans do not need others to do their thinking for them.

6. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians, as guardians of the people's freedom to read, to contest encroachments upon that freedom by individuals or groups seeking to impose their own standards or tastes upon the community at large.

It is inevitable in the give and take of the democratic process that the political, the moral, or the aesthetic concepts of an individual or group will occasionally collide.
with those of another individual or group. In a free society each individual is free to determine for himself what he wishes to read, and each group is free to determine what it will recommend to its freely associated members. But no group has the right to take the law into its own hands and impose its own concept of politics or morality upon other members of a democratic society. Freedom is no freedom if it is accorded only to the accepted and the inoffensive.

7. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians to give full meaning to the freedom to read by providing books that enrich the quality of thought and expression. By the exercise of this affirmative responsibility, bookmen can demonstrate that the answer to a bad book is a good one, the answer to a bad idea is a good one.

The freedom to read is of little consequence when expended on the trivial; it is frustrated when the reader cannot obtain matter fit for his purpose. What is needed is not only the absence of restraint, but the positive provision of opportunity for the people to read the best that has been thought and said. Books are the major channel by which the intellectual inheritance is handed down, and the principal means of its testing and growth. The defense of their freedom and integrity and the enlargement of their service to society, requires of all bookmen the utmost of their faculties, and deserves of all citizens the fullest of their support.

* * * * * * *

We state these propositions neither lightly nor as easy generalizations. We here stake out a lofty claim for the value of books. We do so because we believe that they are good, possessed of enormous variety and usefulness, worthy of cherishing and keeping free. We realize that the application of these propositions may mean the dissemination of ideas and manners of expression that are repugnant to many persons. We do not state these propositions in the comfortable belief that what people read is unimportant. We believe rather that what people read is deeply important; that ideas can be dangerous; but that the suppression of ideas is fatal to a democratic society. Freedom itself is a dangerous way of life, but it is ours.

Library Behavior Policy

Everyone is welcome to use the library facilities as long as his/her activity does not interfere with use by others. Users responsible for disturbing others will be warned once and then required to leave the premises if the behavior does not cease. Failure to comply will result in staff calling the appropriate authorities. Abusive language to staff or patrons, damage to the library or its contents, or behavior that is not in compliance with the City of Cedar Falls’ ordinances for behavior in public places will not be tolerated. When the Behavior Policy is violated, suspension of library access may also be implemented after warnings to correct behavior.

No smoking, e-cigarettes, or alcoholic beverages are permitted anywhere on the premises.

By following these rules staff and patrons will make the Cedar Falls Public Library a good place for learning, recreational reading and research.
CEDAR FALLS PUBLIC LIBRARY
Library Bill of Rights

The Council of the American Library Association reaffirms its belief in the following basic policies which should govern the services of all libraries.

1. As a responsibility of library service, books and other library materials selected should be chosen for values of interest, information and enlightenment of all the people of the community. In no case should library material be excluded because of the race or nationality or the social, political, or religious views of the authors.

2. Libraries should provide books and other materials presenting multiple points of view concerning the problems and issues of our times; no library materials should be proscribed or removed from libraries because of partisan or doctrinal disapproval.

3. Censorship should be challenged by libraries in the maintenance of their responsibility to provide public information and enlightenment.

4. Libraries should cooperate with all persons and groups concerned with resisting abridgment of free expression and free access to ideas.

5. The rights of an individual to the use of a library should not be denied or abridged because of his age, race, religion, national origins or social or political views.

6. As an institution of education for democratic living, the library should welcome the use of its meeting rooms for socially useful and cultural activities and discussions of current public questions.

Revised 4/1/15
CEDAR FALLS PUBLIC LIBRARY
POLICY REGARDING REGISTERED SEX OFFENDERS

The purpose of this policy is to ensure that the Library is in compliance with Iowa Code Chapter 692A that excludes registered sex offenders convicted of offenses against minors from public libraries. Sex offenders convicted of a sex offense against a minor shall not be present upon the real property of a public library and they shall not loiter within three hundred feet of the real property boundary of a public library. The Code provides an exception to this prohibition if the library administrator provides written permission.

The Library Director will not give written permission for registered sex offenders convicted of sex offenses against minors to be in the library. This decision can be appealed to the Library Board of Trustees. The issuance of a library card at any time is NOT permission to enter the library.

The law provides for only two exceptions to the above library exclusion zone: Sex offenders who otherwise live within an established residence within the exclusion zone and sex offenders who are legally entitled to vote may enter the premises if it is a polling location and only for the time reasonably necessary to exercise the right to vote.

Registered sex offenders convicted of sex offenses against minors may be eligible for some library services. They may receive information via telephone or online. They may register for a card directly with the Director, or her designee, via telephone or online, and make arrangements for a person of their choosing to select, check out, and return materials using that card. They may use that card to access the Library’s online materials or databases.

Violations of this policy will be immediately reported to law enforcement, and violators will lose all library privileges. Violators will be subject to prosecution for violation of the Iowa Code.

Staff Use of Electronic Equipment Belonging to the Library

Library employees are allowed to use the library’s electronic equipment both on and off site, as required in their job duties. In order to track this equipment, the employee must use their own library card to check out the equipment if it is removed from its regular place in the library.

Electronic equipment of $50.00 or more in value will be cataloged in our integrated library system (ILS). Anytime a staff member removes a piece of equipment from its regular storage place, that staff member should check out the equipment using the ILS, checking it out to their library card. Equipment should be checked out even if it will not be removed from the building, if the employee is taking the equipment from its normal location.

The checkout period for electronic equipment ordinarily is for one day. Equipment can be renewed if necessary, or the loan period can be extended if the employee knows use will be longer than one day. Long term use of equipment may be accommodated by changing the location rather than checking out. Equipment can be recalled if needed.
